Wonderful light in this beautiful landscape. Good choice of shutter speed and a nice sharpness in the image. An image with a very fine balance between the dark sky, the light of the landscape and the softness of the water. A picture that you often see from the Faroe Islands, which means that it lacks originality but on the whole a very nice picture that we would like to take ourselves.

A well-captured snapshot with the focus just right on what's happening in the image.

A picture with a lot of emotion and joy, but there is also a lot of drama. What happens next?

The linesman in the background raises his flag in an offside.

Joy that may be exchanged for disappointment?
A nice sports picture captured in a moment with a lot of emotions.

It may seem like a completely ordinary sports picture, but we think it gives so much more as it also has a story.

The reflected blue light creates a nice harmony in the image while the eye is drawn to the cycling silhouette.

Careful to include it and also very well placed as it makes the whole picture that it is included.

The image has a nice sharpness and a nice symmetry.

Congratulations on a very nice picture that really sticks with the viewer when you see it.

Magically mysterious picture. Some kind of ghost against the light background catches the eye and creates many questions for the viewer.

A lot of noise and flattened parts and no sharpness, but still, you as a viewer stop at what you see.

A daring choice by the photographer to compete with this image but it grows the more you look at it.

Well composed with a nice symmetry and the road that disappears into the fog.

A nice contrast between the road in the foreground and the house in the background that has been wrapped in the soft , soft fog. Many fine trade-offs that the photographer made in this picture.

Definitely a picture that fits on a wall in large format.

We keep coming back to this image when we scroll between all the pictures.

It has a very, good composition, subtle motif and you wonder where it was taken and where the person in the picture is going.

But the picture does not reveal it, it is the viewer's imagination that gets to decide.

The three windows are well placed in the image and create a nice narrative diagonal of images in the image.

Fun and creative with drone pictures and fantastic pictures separately as well. On the other hand, it might have been fun to have a little more variation on the theme by, for example, varying the angle of view.

A series of images that we believe is created precisely to be presented as a collection. Lovely autumn colours and the red car popping against the surroundings. A fun photo idea and pictures that stick with the viewer.

If you are going to have any opinion on the choice of pictures, maybe picture 4 should have been removed as it does not really have the same color scheme as the others.

Would have been quite enough with the first 3 pictures to get a nice cohesive series of pictures.

A cohesive fine collection with a color tone that makes the pictures intertwine into a whole. The choice of placement of the images strengthens the whole, which is an important part of a collection and we like the choice of 3 images as more would have made the series messy. The diagonals in the outer pictures frame the middle one nicely. Would be fun to see these on a wall in a larger format.

The light kisses the world in every moment, but only the true artist sees how the shadows whisper and the colors sing.

Our photographer is such a seeing soul.

The images are not just captured moments – they are composed with light, composed with a love for the fleeting, the eternal, the human.

Our photographer has not been at the top of the podium, but like the echo of a distant song, the images have touched the jury in heart and soul. A photographer who moves across genres with a rare elegance and shown a great breadth.

A photograph is a whisper, a declaration of love, an eternal moment in a transient world.

Our photographer has whispered, has loved, has captured the fleeing and made it immortal.

That's why we've named the best photographer with self-evident and poetic justice.
